Hey everyone!! So I've been here exactly a week now (for those of you who weren't sure if I'd actually made it) sorry it has taken me so long to post something up here. It's been brill so far and Steven is keeping me busy in the workshop everyday and the week has went in so fast.

The sun is belting it down as expected but I'm beginning to adjust to the heat...or maybe just getting used to sweating so much?! lol I duno but anyway the farmers tans coming on great! 😊

The plan is now to get the boat to Bali on Tuesday so if you could pray that everything goes well there that'd be great. Then the building work on Martins house can start. Its a privilage to be able to be part of a team right at the beginning of the work in a tribe and I'm exited to see it grow and eventually hear of an indigenous church planted there.

So keep praying!! Apologies if I didn't get round to replying to anyone who sent me mails and msgs...no offence intended, I appreciate them all...and I'll try to get another update in before Christmas! 😊
